Delanie Breuer is vice president of environmental and regulatory relations with the Wisconsin Paper Council. She is responsible for environmental, energy, and regulatory issues concerning the industry at both state and federal levels. Prior to joining the WPC, Delanie served as chief of staff to then-Attorney General Brad Schimel. In this role, she managed the Wisconsin Department of Justice, worked on legislative and policy initiatives, and played an important role in several federal EPA Regulation cases, including the Clean Power Plan, Ozone NAAQS, and CSAPR. Delanie also spent nearly four years as legal and policy advisor to Commissioner Ellen Nowak at the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin before moving to Wisconsin DOJ. Delanie earned a B.S. in mechanical engineering from University of Wisconsin-Platteville, after which she went to work in the oil and gas industry in the southern U.S. and internationally, including work in onshore construction and offshore on a deepwater drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico. Delanie eventually returned to Wisconsin and earned her J.D. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison Law School. Delanie is an avid traveler and loves biking, hiking, and spending time with her daughter, Finley.
