Ave Bie is a business law, utilities, and energy attorney who has spent her career serving in state and local government positions and counseling utilities and independent power producers. Currently she is Quarles & Brady's Madison office managing partner. Her experience encompasses all aspects of energy and utilities, from government relations and permitting to counseling on infrastructure and long-range planning. As the former chair of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin and current board member of the New York Independent System Operator (NYISO), Ave possesses a unique skill set with a solid foundation in law. This and her 25 years of leadership roles in utility and regulatory trade groups make Ave nationally recognized in the volatile and highly-regulated energy industry. Her substantive public and private experience allows her to see issues from both sides of the regulatory table and engineer legal solutions that serve all parties well. Ave received her B.A. from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire and her J.D. from the University of Wisconsin Law School. She also sits on the Green Bay Packers' board of directors.
