STACIE REECE
City of Madison, Wisconsin

Stacie Reece is the sustainability program coordinator for the City of Madison, Wisconsin. Prior to working for the City of Madison, she was the sustainability coordinator for the City of Middleton as well as the director of sustainable business initiatives for the nonprofit Sustain Dane. She holds a bachelor of science in sustainable management from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is an alum of Leadership Greater Madison. Stacie has been a resident member of the Sustainable Madison Committee where the resolution for Madison to achieve 100% renewable energy and zero net carbon by 2030 was drafted. The resolution was then adopted by the City of Madison in 2017. And in 2019, the City unanimously approved implementing the recommendations from the 100% Renewable Madison Report. Her current position with the City of Madison will be to help the City achieve these goals as well as helping build a more sustainable and resilient community.
