

PAUL HARRIS

Ranger Power

Paul Harris is co-founder and president of Ranger Power where he oversees all project development and company management. Paul has over 2,000 MWs of utility scale renewable energy project experience from greenfield through operations. He is also a founding member of the Ranger Group of companies, which successfully developed and sold over 1,400 MWs of utility scale solar projects. Included in the Ranger Group's success is over 350 MWs of long term power purchase agreements with regional utilities in New England. Prior to the Ranger Group, Paul managed a portfolio of over 400 MW wind and solar projects at Pioneer Green Energy, where he was responsible for successfully bringing into construction a market leading 150 MW solar project. Paul's expertise includes unique first-mover markets with complex environmental permitting and development processes. Paul built his career in energy on years of experience community organizing as well as international grassroots health work. Paul is a graduate of the University of Colorado, Boulder.
