

TRICIA DeBLEECKERE
Minnesota Public Utility Commission

Tricia DeBleeckere is currently a planning director with the Minnesota Public Utility Commission. She has been working in the industry for more than 20 years. Most recently her work at the State has focused on the development of integrated distribution planning requirements and advanced grid infrastructure cost evaluations. Tricia is a member of the NARUC/NASEO task force on comprehensive energy planning, is co-chair of the Organization of MISO States DER work group, and is chair of the MISO DER task force. She holds a bachelors degree in environmental science from the University of Minnesota.