

DANIELLE BLY WEC Energy Group

Danielle Bly is vice president of supplier diversity where she is responsible for fostering corporate relationships with suppliers and contractors, area businesses, and local government. In addition to this Danielle works in the community facilitating proactive, mutually-beneficial relationships with business advocacy groups and women- and minority-owned and -operated businesses. Prior to this she was director of credit and collections where she was responsible for the overall strategy and operations of credit and collections functions for WEC Energy Group which included remittance processing, revenue protection, field services, and low income/medical condition. Danielle has been with We Energies/WEC Energy Group for 20 years and has held a variety of positions in customer service, human resources, supply chain, and wholesale energy and fuels. The positions she has held have included management trainee, training and development consultant, senior settlement analyst, commodity portfolio manager, and manager of customer care centers. She serves on the boards of directors of the Milwaukee Urban League, the Wisconsin Energy Workforce Consortium, and Black Arts MKE and on the advisory council for Milwaukee Film-Black Lens. In 2014, Danielle was acknowledged as a Woman of Influence-Community Supporter by the Milwaukee Business Journal and in February 2020 was honored with the Bridge BuildHer award from The PowHer Network. A native of Milwaukee, Danielle received a B.B.A. with emphasis in human resources from the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.