

JENNIFER RHUPPIAH ITC Holdings Corp.

Jennifer A. Rhuppiah is the manager of regulatory strategy with ITC Midwest, a transmission-only company with assets across several Midwest states including Iowa and Wisconsin. She is responsible for managing relationships with regulators, maintaining compliance with utility regulations, and advocating for policy that supports improving the resiliency and safety of the grid. Prior to joining ITC, Jennifer served as a board attorney, and board member advisor for the Iowa Utilities Board. She has held various roles in the regulatory industry from financial services and banking to corporate compliance and healthcare. She also managed Iowa's foreign direct investment program by promoting the state and its resources to foreign investors looking to start businesses in the U.S. Jennifer also has been involved with various organizations which mentor and support young students and people of color. She is a member of the Iowa and Illinois bar associations. She received her B.A. in business from Lake Forest College (Illinois) and her J.D. from Drake University Law School.