

ANDY KOORS

Deloitte

Andy Koors is a managing director in Deloitte's audit and assurance practice, providing audit and advisory related services with a focus on serving companies in the power and utilities industry in Wisconsin and across the Midwest. In his 15 years in public accounting, Andy has assisted clients on a range of topics, including advising his clients on processes, controls, and governance topics; leading the execution of external audits; and assisting companies with complex accounting matters, including accounting for the impacts of ratemaking and business combinations. He has extensive experience with Securities and Exchange Commission requirements and has assisted his clients with several business combinations and public financings. Andy graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay with a bachelors in accounting and is a licensed Certified Public Accountant. He is also a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.