

MICHAEL GREIVELDINGER

Alliant Energy

Michael Greiveldinger is director of regulatory and wholesale customer affairs at Alliant Energy. He is responsible for the execution of regulatory matters for Alliant Energy's Wisconsin utility, Wisconsin Power and Light Company, including rate reviews, construction dockets, and compliance activities. He also leads Alliant Energy's wholesale electric business, working with electric cooperatives and municipal and investor-owned utilities.

Michael first joined Alliant Energy in 2008 and held various positions in the legal department, including that of managing attorney. In that role, he helped to lead the legal strategy for dockets before state and federal regulatory commissions. He has also worked on other legal matters for Alliant Energy, including environmental and commercial matters. From 2003 to 2008, Michael was an assistant division counsel with the Great Lakes and Ohio River Division of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He received his J.D. from the University of Wisconsin Law School and a B.A. in communication arts and political science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.
