

CHRISTINE VAUGHAN LaReg Corp.

Christine Vaughan is founder and CEO of LaReg Corp., where she is leading efforts to use AI as a transformative force to reduce the burden of participating in utility regulatory proceedings, offering better access, enhanced productivity, and new insights for increased regulatory performance. A WBE-certified small business that is working on both technical tools for utility regulatory processes and associated consulting products, LaReg Corp.

recently published a report titled “Regulatory Survey of the Future of Gas” which examines recent state-level regulatory changes across more than 20 states on the topic of decarbonizing heat for the building sector. Christine has executive and leadership experience in both utilities and consulting. Prior starting LaReg Corp. Christine was a director at Roland Berger and contributed to over 35 projects mainly focused on the energy transition. She was chief financial officer for Unitil Corporation, where they won an Edison Electric Institute award for best small cap performance. She also served as vice president of rates and regulatory and as treasurer with Eversource Energy, covering both state and federal jurisdictions. Christine holds an MBA from Yale University and a B.Eng from McGill University and is a CFA® charter holder.