RMI

Ryan Foelske is a head of Engage & Act for the Carbon-Free Electricity Program at RMI. Prior to joining RMI, Ryan worked for Deutsche Bank and for Brookfield Asset Management as a buy-side equity analyst specializing in global regulated utilities and other publicly listed infrastructure companies. He built financial models, understood and quantified risks, and sought benchmark-beating returns for investors. In addition to his company coverage duties, Ryan helped develop the modeling framework, standardized and aggregated data outputs, and worked on index construction and inclusion. Ryan received a BS in finance from Northern Illinois University and an MS in finance from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.
